

Taxation in United Arab Emirates

The United Arab Emirates (UAE) is located on the southern coast of the Arabian Gulf and is a Federation of seven emirates, Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Sharjah, Ajman, Umm Al Quwain, Ras Al Khaimah and Fujairah. The country has been experiencing considerable growth and development since its formation in 1971 due to its liberal economic policies. The population has rapidly increased from around 250,000 in 1971 to an estimated 5 million in 2005.

The UAE's dynamic economic environment and the economic diversification strategy, has been made possible due to the massive investment in the infrastructure comprising of efficient road networks, excellent telecommunications facilities and the links with the outside world through first class ports, both sea and air, which are constantly being upgraded.

In Dubai, hotels, office blocks, shopping malls and entertainment complexes are being developed rapidly and are putting the Dubai property market on the world map. The trigger for much of this expansion was the Emirate's decision to allow non-nationals to purchase freehold property in several property developments such as Nakheel's development of The Palm, Jumeirah and The Palm, Jebel Ali, which are the latest residential island projects currently in Dubai.

The Commercial Companies Law No. 8 of 1984 which establishes seven types of business organizations, addresses amongst other matters minimum capital levels and UAE national equity ownership requirements, the number of directors and shareholders, and other topics relating to the management and administration of businesses. The Commercial Companies Law is in the process of being amended.

Under the present Commercial Companies Law, in most cases foreign ownership is restricted to 49%. There is speculation that this will be increased in the forthcoming Commercial Companies Law. Branches of foreign companies may be registered in the UAE; however a local sponsor or service agent is required in virtually all cases.

Ministerial decree No. 194 of 2004 allows GCC nationals to set up entities in the UAE without UAE National involvement

Corporate Income Tax

The federal government of the United Arab Emirates has not promulgated any tax laws. Most of the individual Emirates have issued corporate tax decrees, but, in practice, taxes are only imposed on oil and gas producing companies at rates set forth in their government concession agreements, and on branches of foreign banks at rates set out in specific tax decrees or fixed in agreements with the Rulers of the Emirates in which the branches operate.

The income tax decrees which have been enacted in each Emirate provide for tax to be imposed on the taxable income of all bodies corporate wherever incorporated, and their branches which carry on trade or business, at any time during the taxable year through a permanent establishment in the relevant Emirates. Bodies corporate are taxed if they carry on trade or business directly in the Emirate or indirectly through the agency of another body corporate.

Abu Dhabi

According to the Abu Dhabi Income Tax Decree, all corporate entities carrying out trade or business in Abu Dhabi are taxable. In practice, tax is imposed as follows:
